Kenmore elite oasis washer problems

? 12 Answers from these members: Move the tub by hand when the machine is empty and listen for water sloshing around. Run an empty machine and see if the off balance problem occurs even then. Mine did and the problem turned out to be water getting into 2 "water tight" rings on the tub. I drilled 4 small holes to drain the water out and problem solved. Providing a complete model number to your question will definitely help an expert better your search. If you would like to reply to this thread with a complete model number to your question than I would be more than happy to assist you. Have a great day. Hello, The manual lists 110.2706, 2707, 2708, and 2709, but the machine is running right now so I can't get the number from the machine. I will get the number when the load is finished and reply with it then. Wes Hi Wes, Thank you for submitting a question to Manage My Life. I know how frustrating it can be when appliances do not function properly. The "uL" error code is displayed when the electronic control detects an off balance load. This can be caused by overloading, bad bearings in the tub, something between the tub and basket, or an issue with the electronics, just to name a few. Make sure the Drain Hose is not pushed too far down the standpipe as to cause a slow siphon of water from washer. Loosely load the basket no higher than the top row of holes in the basket. DO NOT pack the items down. This issue can be very frustrating to try and diagnose. I highly recommend having a trained service technician evaluate this problem. You can have it repaired at your home by a Sears technician. Here is a link for the website: Sears Home Services . I am including an image below that contains the diagnostic test for most Oasis washers. You did not include your model number, but this should work on your washer. Try running this diagnostic routine on your washer, the washer must not have any clothing in it during the diagnostics . If the washer goes through this diagnostic test without showing the uL error, try washing smaller loads. Follow the procedures in this answer, and if I may be of further assistance please include your model number in a reply to this post. Thanks again for using Manage My Life. Landell Hello Landell, Thanks for the reply! Here are the details from my machine: Kenmore Elite Oasis HE Type 560 Model: 110.27072600 We have been trying to use the machine since the last post and intermittently it will do a load without going out of balance. 98% of the time the machine will get the UL error and stop, and after readjusting the load it goes out of balance again...repeating many times before it might finish the load. I will try and do the diagnostic test you posted above today and post the results here. I am just trying to determine what is the faulty part so I can get an accurate estimate for the replacement costs if I do the labor myself. I am not an appliance technician but with the proper instructions I should be able to do the job. I am half way convinced that the bearing is problematic and has not seized up yet so I am wondering if anyone has ever replaced the bearing for the spin basket without replacing the whole outer tub? Is the bearing just not available or just not easy to remove? If I can find a replacement bearing I possibly could cut the bad bearing off with a cut-off wheel and press a new one on and re-assemble the thing? The thing with the bearing being the problem is that it spins up without any thumping or bad bearing noise so it is easy to think the bearing is OK? I will go see if I can do the diagnostic test now. Regards, Wes Hello, I did the diagnostics and when it activated the automatic mode it had a saved fault code: F 511 began the steps and it stopped in step C1 after filling until the basket floated, and then got the F 51 error. I cannot advance to the next step with the same button as we were using and need to know how to proceed or terminate the diagnostics? Will it be OK to unplug the power cable? Please advise as the Manual steps were not included with the other diagnostic attachment. Regards, Wes Wes, The bearing is part of the tub and cannot be purchased separately. If you have a bad bearing you will have to replace the TUB and DRIVE SHAFT ASSEMBLY (part number W10128830). I am including a link below that details the checks for the F51. Follow the troubleshooting that Lyle includes in his answer. I also am giving you the tech sheet for the oasis. You may need to remove the basket and check for an article of clothing between the tub and basket. I hope this is helpful. Check the things I have covered here, and if I may be of further assistance as more details become available, please reply to this post. Thanks again for using Manage My Life. Landell Hello Landell, Thanks for all the help! Just wanted to conclude this thread noting that my wife couldn't wait any longer for me to figure out what was wrong and fix it, and she called Sears and had a repair done today. The repair consisted of new suspension rod assemblies and a wiring harness( I think it went from the bottom mechanism to the control board) Just as a note, I think there should be a specification for the spring length on the suspension rods as that was one of the items replaced. The old springs and rods did not show any signs of wear, were not bent but apparently they were weak. If I had had a free length measurement of a good spring to compare them to I would have replaced them with new ones as one of my first options. I almost got to inspecting the wiring for the RPS etc. but the repair man beat me to it. Thanks for all the help and for trying to help me work through this problem. It really is a big help to find you guys here and be able to ask all of our crazy questions and get some meaningful answers in return. Regards, Wes NOTE: There have been some improvements made in the service procedure for that outer tub bearing since this thread was posted. The outer tub bearing is now available as a separate component. It can be replaced using special tools that the Sears Service technicians now have been issued. That bearing kit costs around $80. The labor for the technician would cost around $140 (at this time). Model: 110.28032700 - I too am experiencing the out of balance spin (with UL) even when basket is empty. I pulled the basket, with difficulty because of rust that had built up on the shaft. I shook the shaft smartly to see if there is any play in the bearing. There appears not. I cleaned and emery papered the shaft back to newness. The basket now "floats" easily up and down. I do note a slight lateral looseness in the basket on the shaft, while holding the tub stationary, and wonder if this is normal. ALL this and I still get the wobble at spin up. I have read much about the tub and bearing; "limited 10 year warranty replacement if done by Sears Service", "bearing not available separately", etc. etc. Don't know, first if any of this is true OR IF I even need it. Inspected the suspension springs at the beginning. They are all the same height. Are the springs prone to 'weakness'. Don't know what to look for here, but the balls are well greased and move freely. The washer will be five years in July 2014. Help appreciated before I invest in new suspension kit. Model 110.27072602. Experiencing the same problems others have reported with machine stopping and can't start again. Sears technician said it would cost $548 to fix and offered a coupon for money off a new machine. I don't think SO! I have a Kenmore Oasis Type 580 02 Model 11 28081700 washer. It gives me oL code and turns off. I ran the diagnosis and it fills up with water during C1, then turned off. It is not overloaded when washing. Any suggestions are appreciated.
